

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Methods and apparatus for redirecting Internet-type text messages from a computer workstation to a digital telephone having an LCD display include replacing Internet browser plug-ins with applications which intercept messages and redirect them to the digital telephone. The applications also permit the digital telephone to log on to the workstation and identify the address of the telephone so that messages may be forwarded to the correct address.